

Tax Relief on County's Agenda for the New Year

By BURTON CHACE
County Supervisor

A year is almost upon us, and the prospect of a "fresh start" gives people the opportunity to look hopefully at what the future has in store. This is a good thing for our country, especially during this era of pressing problems and domestic stress.

To be sure, the people cannot overlook the burdens of high taxes, troubled campuses, and international conflict. But while coping with these problems, citizens must be cognizant of progress and accomplishments being made in this, the greatest nation in the world.

Personally I look forward to 1969 very hopefully. I believe that much effort will be made toward reducing the tax burden, curing our welfare ills and making our cities safer places in which to live.

BEING a practical man, I realize the total solutions to these problems will not be realized in 1969, but the opportunity to take significant steps toward these solutions is at hand.

For my part as county supervisor, I will continue to vote for laws to accomplish these goals.

Speaking of bright prospects for a new year, there is nothing but a promising outlook at the Marina del Rey, the county-owned and operated small craft harbor between Venice and Playa del Rey.

PRIVATE investments in 1969 will almost double the present $37.7 million in leasehold improvements at the marina. Even though 1968 was a fantastic year for private construction activity at the marina, the projections for 1969 are even more phenomenal.

Private developers constructed $11.9 million in apartments, hotels, restaurants, boat slips, and other businesses during 1968, and all signs point to more than $29 million in building activity in 1969.

Plans and construction programs for the $29 million have been filed by lessee-developers and have been approved by the County Design Control Board. If all goes ahead as scheduled, the record for new construction starts at the marina will be broken.

THE FORECAST is phenomenal, but we shouldn't let it overshadow the accomplishments of 1968. This was the most significant year to date in the marina's history.

The year 1968 was the year in which the marina operation went "into the black." The project is self-sustaining and will produce tax and lease revenues to the county from now on.

This year also will go into the record as the period when the 4,000th boat was berthed at the small craft harbor. This means an increase of 1,000 boats in 1968 alone.

And 1968 marked the first time that private investment exceeded the $36.25 million in public funds used to construct and develop the small craft harbor.

OTHER significant developments at the marina during 1968 included:

- Some 288 residential units were completed, giving the project a total of 1,218 units with an average occupancy rate of more than 99 per cent.

- There are 120 firms or individuals doing business at the county-owned and operated marina.
- The marina was the site of 38 races or regattas involving more than 1,400 boats. Hundreds of boats from the marina competed in racing events throughout Southern California.

The list of accomplishments at the marina goes on and on — and it points to nothing but fantastic growth and success in the future. The taxpayers are now realizing the full recreational benefits as well as the tax relieving revenues from the project.

The Small Craft Harbor Commission, headed by Aubrey Austin, and the Design Control Board, headed by Maurice H. Fleishman, deserve much credit for their outstanding work in guiding the success of the Marina del Rey.

Small Boat Class Set

A free class in basic small boat seamanship will be offered by the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary beginning Jan. 13.

The 12-week class will include instruction in legal requirements, ventilation, safety devices, navigation, knot tying, seamanship, and small boat handling.

Classes will meet each Monday evening at the North American Aviation Recreation Center, 5353 W. Imperial Hwy., from 7 to 9 p.m.

Certificates of accomplishment will be awarded to persons successfully completing the course.

Top Nurse Named at Harbor JC

Sophomore Sherry Parker of Torrance was named by Harbor College's nursing faculty as the College's Nurse of the Year in the registered nursing division.

She then represented the College in contests at St. Vincent's Hospital preliminary to choosing a California Nurse of the Year. The contests are sponsored by the Students Nurses Association of California.

A "B" average student, Miss Parker was judged on three main categories: a written essay entitled, "Student Nurse: Catalyst of Progress;" personal interviews conducted by members of the nursing faculty and the general faculty; and state evaluations completed by her nursing instructors.

Sherry was also rated for her ability in working with patients, her adjustment to nursing, and her qualities of leadership.

With regard to her accomplishment, Sherry states, "It was a great thrill and I attribute much of my success to the spirit of my classmates and instructors."

Sherry's future plans include graduating in August, enrolling at California State College at Long Beach for her credential, and being employed as a school nurse.

Siren Test Due Friday

Civil defense warning sirens of the county will be sounded independently this month in a test of the system at 10 a.m. Friday — in the last monthly test of 1968, Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess announced.

The signal will be the customary one heard on the last Friday of each month, which is a single undulating tone sounded for one minute.
